Fish Die From Pollution, Cause Under Probe

Acid Being Considered As Reason Ellenville Area Firm Is Checked

A pollution of the water in Rondout creek was definitely the cause of the death of "hundreds" of fish which were discovered floating on the surface of the creek downstream from Napanoch last week.

This determination was reached by Conservation Department officials following a two day study made by a pollution unit from the Rochester office which worked in the Ellenville-High Falls area on Friday and Saturday.

Examining Data

Data compiled by the unit is being examined and it was stated today will in "all probability" result in a charge of pollution being made against a concern "in the Ellenville area," it was stated this morning.

Until the facts are reviewed and a charge lodged, no statement as to where the pollution came from will be made by the department. However, it was stated the pollution "apparently" was from acid.

Many Fish Killed

A pollution condition was reported along the upper Rondout creek in the Ellenville-Accord area last week when hundreds of dead fish were observed floating on the surface of the water, particularly in the Accord area.

William J. Goodman, district inspector of the Conservation Department in Kingston, was notified of the condition and he summoned the pollution unit from Rochester. He had "no comment" to make pending the outcome of the pollution study.

Charge May Be Filed

Samples were taken from the creek at points between High Falls and above Napanoch by the pollution unit and when a complete analysis is made and facts sufficient to substantiate a charge have been found, a charge of violation of the Conservation Law will be made.

Coldest Sept. 10 In Last 22 Years

Autumn's chilly preview continued in the area over the weekend as the mercury dipped to a nippy 40 degrees today at 5 a. m., according to the city engineer's office.

It was the coldest September 10 on record in the last 22 years, the office said, although the temperature had been recorded in the low 40's during that period on a comparable date.

The temperature dropped to 47 at 11:30 p. m., Sunday while a high of 65 degrees was reached at 4 p. m. yesterday.

The weatherman predicted it would not be as cold tonight but the forecast called for temperatures in the low 40's.

Fall is due to arrive officially September 22.

55 Are Dead, Losses Multimillion As Typhoon Hits Japan and Okinawa

Tokyo, Japan, Sept. 10 (AP)—Typhoon Emma, swept northward through the Sea of Japan today leaving 50 dead and multimillion dollar losses in its wake in Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines.

Winds in the center were down to 90 miles an hour when U. S. Air Force weather planes pinpointed it at 3 p. m. (1 a. m. EST) 200 miles northwest of southern Honshu, Japan. The winds had been 156 miles an hour over Okinawa Saturday and 115 miles an hour over Kyushu, Japan's southernmost home island, yesterday.

Twenty-nine persons were reported killed in Japan, one in South Korea and three on Okinawa. Okinawa fatalities included a military policeman and two Ryukyu islanders. Six drowned in the Philippines in weekend floods on the typhoon's edge.

Last Wednesday 11 U. S. marines who had gone swimming off a north Okinawa beach drowned in an undertow laid to the typhoon.

The U. S. Army said Emma was "the worst typhoon disaster

Integration on Larger Scale Begins Quietly

By The Associated Press

With and without the protection of soldiers' guns, negroes attended mixed classes today in Sturgis, Ky., and Louisville, Ky., but jeering, gravel-throwing mob barred a negro girl and boy from the junior college at Texas, Ark.

Crowd Is Orderly

While a heavy force of National Guardsmen stood by, seven negroes were brought to the Sturgis High School in automobiles an hour before classes began and although a crowd had gathered there was no disorder. Later, the crowd grew to about 1,500 but remained orderly.

Integration on a large scale basis began quietly in Louisville without any troops or heavy concentration of police. A crowd of about 300 adults and students of Texarkana Junior College, formed a mass picket line that kept Jessalyn Gray, 18, and Steve Poster, 17, from entering the building. Miss Gray had been accepted as a student after tests and Poster said he was trying to find out how he came out in his entrance examinations.

Gravel and Kicks

In forcing the couple to flee in a taxi, members of the mob threw gravel at the Negroes and a white boy kicked at the Negro youth but missed.

The Negroes entered the Sturgis school about an hour before classes began and although a crowd had begun to form in the western Kentucky town of 5,000. The school's white enrollment is about 300.

At Louisville, Kentucky's principal city 170 miles to the northeast of Sturgis, full scale integration proceeded quietly. Threats to picket Male High School, where 75 Negroes enrolled, did not materialize.

It was one of the largest tests of integration yet undertaken in the south's border areas. There (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Javits Gains Strength, Dewey, Alfange Are Out

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits gained strength by the minute today and appeared almost certain of the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate.

Alfange Withdraws

While a closed meeting of the state's GOP's powerful, 32-member executive committee was underway, Dean Alfange, New York city lawyer, withdrew his candidacy in favor of Javits.

Alfange read a statement to reporters asserting that "since the sentiment here is predominantly for Mr. Javits and the circumstances are such that unity should prevail, I have asked my supporters not to place my name in nomination and to vote for Mr. Javits."

Alfange had claimed to have scattered backing in a few counties.

The executive committee thrashed over the Javits situation prior to an open meeting of the full, 304-member committee to designate the nominee formally.

Up to Committee

Alfange's withdrawal left former State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern of New Rochelle as Javits' only declared competitor for the Senate nomination.

McGovern was reported ready to nominate Javits if the executive committee threw its weight behind the embattled attorney general.

Has Real Strength

Another source, who also declined to be identified, said Javits appeared to have "more strength" than any other candidate for the nomination. However, the source could not say whether that strength was sufficient to assure the nomination in the face of uneasiness over recent reports attempting to link him with Communists.

Javits repeatedly has denied any association with the Communist organization.

As the executive committee convened, Frank Kenna, influential leader from Queens, repeated that he would push an effort to draft former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the nomination. Dewey has said on several occasions that he was not interested. Kenna said he was not even considering a second choice.

Dewey Definitely Out

Shortly after the executive committee meeting got underway, a committee aide reported that Frank Kenna, the Queens (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

River Dash in Stolen Boats Holds 3 Youths

William Gusk, 16, of 45 Riverdale avenue, Yonkers, faces a grand larceny charge as the result of an escapade Friday when he and two juveniles allegedly stole some motorboats on the Hudson river and led police authorities in a wild 100-mile chase.

Young Gusk was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Millard Davis of the Town of Ulster, waived examination and was held for the grand jury.

The other two boys, 12 and 14 years of age, were released in custody of their parents in Yonkers, but must return to Kingston to appear in children's court.

Motor Trouble

Kingston state police, who participated in the chase, reported that the three boys took a motorboat at Croton-on-Hudson and proceeded up the river to Catskill. Here they developed motor trouble, abandoned the outboard and commandeered another boat of the same type, named the Trojan.

They started back down the river to return home but stopped in the vicinity of East Kingston and stole two more motorboats, the property of Edward Acker and Nicholas Turck of East Kingston. They continued their trip, one boy in each boat.

As they were passing Highland a boatbuilder named Deyo recognized the boat which he had sold to Mr. Turck and, becoming suspicious, took off in pursuit.

The boy in Mr. Turck's boat abandoned it and entered one of the other two boats, state police reported, the three boys continuing their trip south in the two boats.

The entire river from that point south was alerted and the chase waxed furious. The local state police barracks was advised a short time later by Cpl. John Monahan of the New City Station, Rockland county.

Student of Paris Seeks Admission In Kingston High

A request for admission of a young student from Paris, France, has been received by the Kingston Board of Education.

In a letter to the board Mrs. E. Crane Chadbourne of Stone Ridge writes as follows:

"My friend Henry de Beaumont, doctor of science, University of Paris, wishes to have his son go to Kingston High School for a full course of study preparatory to entering college later on. The boy himself is most anxious to come and has a student's visa.

"Patrick de Beaumont was born Feb. 6, 1937, at Moulinaux, Seine-Maritime, France. His home address is Nazelles, Indre-et-Loire, France. He regularly attended school in his native country and his father can furnish a complete record of his education.

"At present his father is in the U. S. working as consultant to a firm in Washington, D. C. "General Brison of the French Embassy, Washington, D. C., will be glad to give references as to the standing, etc., of the de Beaumont family. I have known him a great number of years. The late Mr. Guerin de Beaumont, Minister of Justice of France, and his brother, Mr. Henry, have often visited me at my home in Stone Ridge."

The board will examine young de Beaumont's school record and references in processing the request.

MacArthur Says He's Not Candidate

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today he was not a candidate for the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate.

John R. Crews, Brooklyn GOP leader, made public a telegram in which MacArthur asserted "I am not a candidate for anything."

An organization boosting MacArthur for the nomination had been granted permission by the Republican state committee to present pro-MacArthur petitions at the committee's nominating session here.

The general said he was "not engaged in any political activity and (I) have not authorized my name on any petition of any kind."

Crews said MacArthur had sent the telegram to Rep. Francis Dorn of New York city, who forwarded it to the Brooklyn leader.

Boy Badly Hurt When Firecracker Explodes Sunday

A 12-year-old Kingston boy, who was injured Sunday afternoon when a firecracker exploded, was reported in "fair" condition today at Benedictine Hospital.

Charles Staccio, of 35 Willow street, sustained two fractured fingers on his right hand, the tip of his right index finger was "torn off," his right thumb "shredded," and the palm of his hand mangled, a police report at 2:30 p. m. said.

Officers Thomas McGrane and Anthony Turck reported the boy was injured about 1:30 p. m. in the rear of St. Mary's Hall, North street, and had been removed to the hospital by Deputy Sheriff Anthony Alleca.

Deputy Alleca told The Freeman the boy was among a group of youngsters "looking for play" in a field far in the rear of St. Mary's Hall. A fireworks display had been held near the hall Saturday evening.

According to Deputy Alleca one of the boys discovered the firecracker in the field and was going to bring it to the hall to have an adult dispose of it when young Staccio took it and threw it in a rubbish fire nearby.

It had not been determined today exactly how the boy was injured since his condition did not permit questioning.

A group preparing coffee in the hall heard the detonation and Deputy Alleca went outside and discovered the injured Staccio boy, he said.

No Damage Here To Fruit Crops

Unusually early crisp autumn-like weather which was experienced throughout this area over the weekend brought frost in some localities but no serious damage was reported to the Ulster County Farm Bureau office today.

In mountain sections lows of 30 to 32 were reported and from the Saugerties area one grower of sudan grass reported his crop frozen. Inquiry at the local county agriculture office as to whether this grass should be used for feed, brought a warning that after sudan grass was frozen it might be dangerous to cattle and should not be used for silo filling or for feed.

No damage to fruit was reported since most fruit crops will stand much lower temperatures than experienced over the weekend. In some mountain areas and in low spots, however, some vegetables suffered from the cold.

Described as "unusual" at this time of the year, the cool weather is expected to continue over the local area today.

Troop Mass Criticized By Nasser

British Are Cool About Suggestion

London, Sept. 10 (AP)—Egypt bid today for a parley representing the views of all users of the Suez Canal to tackle the stalemate that Cairo negotiations failed to solve. The key issue is control of the canal.

"Egypt desires to state its determination to continue to work for a negotiated settlement within the letter and spirit of the charter of the United Nations," an Egyptian communique said.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government set forth the idea even as Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies' five-nation mission flew back to London to report on the collapse of crisis talks with Nasser.

French Head for London

French leaders also headed to London to plan the next move with Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. They faced a choice between war and further diplomatic dicker. This city again became the focal point of consultations on the crisis.

The Cairo communique announced a note containing the Egyptian proposal—nebulous as to date, meeting place and how participants would be chosen—had been handed by Egyptian diplomats to UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and to governments throughout the world.

Troop Massing Hit

The note criticized the massing of British and French troops in the eastern Mediterranean and reputed efforts to influence foreign canal pilots to quit. It recalled Egypt has expressed willingness Aug. 12 to negotiate on the basis of renewal of the 1888 convention guaranteeing freedom of navigation of the canal.

It suggested that, "without violating Egypt's sovereignty," a solution could be found to cover freedom of navigation, improvement of the canal to meet future needs and maintenance of fair tolls.

British Chilly on Idea

British officials gave Egypt's proposal a chilly reception.

They said the proposal clearly envisaged the negotiations should take place on the basis of Egyptian control of the canal. This, (Continued on Page 11, Col. 4)

Mrs. Van Wagenen's Record Lauded in Cancer Project

More than 100 men and women from all sections of Ulster county and areas of New York state paid tribute to Mrs. Harry Parker Van Wagenen, Saturday night, for her 20 years in cancer control work.

They attended a testimonial dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel to commemorate her retirement August 31 as executive secretary of Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society, which she was instrumental in organizing in 1947.

Dr. Francis E. O'Connor, chairman of a group that formed the first board of directors for the Ulster unit, and other speakers lauded Mrs. Van Wagenen for her great service to humanity, and hoped that she would continue in an advisory capacity.

Project Real Struggle

Mrs. Van Wagenen said she appreciated the "undeserved" recognition, urged that the fight against cancer be carried on by all, and recounted the hard battling and rough struggle in getting control programs organized in the days when nobody wanted to even talk about cancer.

She is the wife of Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen, 16 John street, who, she said, encouraged her in her work. He retired from 60 years of practice last spring, with a record of having delivered more than 2,000 babies. Dr. Van Wagenen was supervisor of the First ward for 14 years.

Those who joined Dr. O'Connor as speakers were:

Dr. Paul R. Gerhardt, chairman of the executive committee, New York State Division, American Cancer Society, also chairman of the Cancer Control Division, New York State Department of Health.

Principals at Testimonial

Dr. William J. Bush, president of the board of directors, Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society; Dr. Milton M. Grover Jr., director and radiologist, Ulster County Tumor Clinic; Dr. William S. Bush, president of the board of directors, Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society.

Mayor Is Guest

Mayor Frederick H. Stang was a guest as ex-officio member of the board of directors, Ulster County Branch, ASC.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Donald P. Reidy, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel, Kingston, gave the benediction.

Arthur Jorgensen of New Paltz, formerly of the International Committee, YMCA, who served 27 years in Japan, was toastmaster for the dinner of which Mrs. Andrew J. Snyder was chairman and Richard M. Kalish, Kingston, co-chairman.

Personifies Altruism

Dr. O'Connor said "This is an opportunity and an occasion that I feel should not pass without speaking of and emphasizing the difficulties and handicaps under which Mrs. Van Wagenen has given of herself as executive secretary of the Ulster County Branch of the American Cancer Society, when Ulster county had been pointed out as having a rising incidence of cancer.

"If there is such a quality as altruism, then it has been personified by the lady whom we are honoring tonight.

Humble Beginning

"Ten years ago in the cellar of a wooden county structure on Fair street, with space furnished, fortified only with book-

Belair Farm Offered for Sale

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Belair Farm, southern Maryland estate of the late William Woodward Jr., was offered today for sale for $1,250,000, a sum less than the estate got for Nashua.

The Hanover Bank and John W. Ludewig, executors of the estate, sold Nashua under sealed bids last December for $1,251,200. That was a world record price for a racehorse.

The Belair Farm property, located between Baltimore and Washington includes 2,280 acres, a main house built for Governor Ogle in 1746, and many other buildings.

Woodward was accidentally shot and killed by his wife last October when she mistook him for a prowler in their Long Island home.

Ellenville Man Found Dead, Had Been Missing

Nathan Schiefer, about 40, of 20 Lincoln street, Ellenville, was found dead about 1 p. m. Saturday after having been reported missing early Friday night.

He was discovered by Ellenville police in the village of Kingston, where he was investigated in the absence of Dr. Charles Rosenstock of Ellenville, issued a verdict of suicide by nicotine poisoning. He said Mr. Schiefer, who had been in ill health for some time, had drunk the contents of an ounce bottle of Black Leaf 40, an insect killer.

The body was removed to Loucks Funeral Home, Ellenville.

Woman, 84, Hurt In Car Collision

Mrs. Sherman L. Short, 84, of Woodstock, suffered lacerations of the left knee late Sunday morning in a two-car collision on Route 212 in the village of Woodstock, according to Trooper Raymond Kowalski of the Kingston state police.

Trooper Kowalski reported that Mrs. Short was a passenger in a 1955 sedan operated by her husband, Mr. Short, 85, slowed to make a left turn into the driveway of the Methodist Church when a 1951 pickup truck, operated by Otto Jacoby, 31, of Woodstock, traveling in the opposite direction, was in collision with the Short car.

Apparently Mr. Jacoby believed that Mr. Short was slowing to permit him to pass. Mr. Short made the turn, however, the collision resulting.

Mrs. Short was treated by Dr. Hans Cohn of Woodstock.

Heavy Voting in Maine

Portland, Me., Sept. 10 (AP)—Very heavy voting in brisk, clear weather was reported at mid-morning today in Maine's first-in-the-nation election which will determine the second term hopes of Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, the first Democrat to hold the governorship in 20 years. A few wards in the mill city of Biddeford, a Democratic stronghold, reported morning voting was double that of two years ago. A few small communities expected record votes on the basis of the early turnout.

Deaths Bringing Investigation of Po'keepsie Pits

Poughkeepsie town and city officials are prepared for "a thorough investigation" of possible death trap vaults as the result of the death of two city employees who were overcome and asphyxiated early Friday afternoon.

Dr. Chester Golding, Dutchess county medical examiner, issued a verdict of death by asphyxiation due to lack of oxygen. Mather Mosher, 42, and Emil Deal, 66, both of the Poughkeepsie Department of Public Works, were reading a water meter in a 10-foot meter pit when they were overcome.

Dr. Golding said the air had been tested for gas and none was found.

Supervisor Mahar of the town of Poughkeepsie and Acting City Manager Dean said this weekend their investigation would include "six or seven other underground vaults."

The vaults contain master water meters.

The officials said their probe would be made to assure safe conditions for working men who enter the vaults.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—The stock market moved slightly higher early this afternoon as strength by steels and motors spurred the list.

Aside from aircrafts, which went higher in active trading early in the session but then quieted, the other divisions did little.

Gains by pivotal stocks ranged to around 2 points or more but there were plenty of losers of from fractions to about a point.

Trading overall was fairly active. Oils, which were ragged at the start, showed a firmer tendency later but there wasn't much turnover in this group.

The market was irregular at the start, with aircrafts drawing the most interest as they gained fractionally. After the first hour stocks began to spurt and, as they kept their gains, motors advanced while the trading pace in aircrafts slowed.

Leading rails were unchanged or mostly lower.

The centals bagged. As a pickup in copper orders was reported, the industry's shares improved.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices rose in active trading.

Corporate bonds were lower in slow trading.

U. S. government bonds were quiet and unchanged in the over the counter market.

Briefly Told

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—Gov. Harriman says that persons willing and able to work "should not be forced into idleness" by compulsory retirement programs.

In a message sent Saturday to a meeting of Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Harriman suggested reconsideration of compulsory retirement plans, which, he said, evolved in job-scarce depression years. He urged labor to continue to work on elimination of "barriers to the employment of older workers" and to cooperate in redesigning jobs to increase employment of those workers.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—The State Department of Social Welfare said today it has made arrangements with other state agencies for placing employees to be dropped from the staff of the Thomas Indian School at Iroquois. The school is to be closed about Sept. 1 of next year. Welfare Commissioner Raymond Houston said the schedule calls for dropping 20 employees by April 1, four by July 1 and 29 by Oct. 1.

Hamilton, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—The Colgate University class of 1960 will report on campus Wednesday. The freshmen—369 strong—will undergo an orientation period. Upperclassmen will arrive Sept. 17 and classes will begin the following day.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—Officials today hailed the work of police and coast guard auxiliary vessels in averting disaster when rough waters and high winds capsized or swamped 29 of 103 starters in the annual round-Manhattan outboard boat race. All 29 drivers, one a 12-year-old boy, were rescued yesterday, either pulled ashore by lines or picked up by the patrol craft. Only 56 boats finished the race. Eighteen others of the starting field put in to shore rather than chance the loss of their fragile craft in the waters tossed by winds of from 20 to 25 mph. Officials said they started the race on the basis of reports that the wind velocity would be no more than 10 mph.

Hotel Destroyed

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 10 (AP)—Fire and an explosion yesterday destroyed the two-story Royal Hotel and an adjacent two-story apartment building. No injuries were reported. Owner Fred LeFebvre estimated damage to the 32-room hotel at $300,000. Albert Clement valued his apartment building at $10,000. Mayor Aaron Horowitz said it was believed that fire had started in a trash barrel at the rear of the hotel. He said flames had caused propane gas tanks to explode. About 75 firemen from northern New York communities across the St. Lawrence river from here helped fight the fire.

CITIZENSHIP PARTICIPATION

Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts will participate in the forthcoming presidential election by helping to get citizens out to vote. The Boy Scout program, which will be nation-wide, will be entirely non-partisan in its concept and execution.

The Boy Scouts of Ulster and Greene Counties will distribute display window posters and on Saturday, November 3 place on doorknobs of homes in the two counties placards urging citizens to vote.

A valuable lesson in participating citizenship, the Boy Scouts can be depended upon to perform another good deed for their country.

Extra emphasis is being placed on the value of voting this year. President Eisenhower recently warned that compared with other years at this time registration is way down across the land. In the presidential election of 1952, some 35,000,000 Americans failed to go to the polls to fulfill the obligation of voting.

TOPNOTCH ATHLETES

The latest summer amusement is listing the number one performers, present and past, in each branch of sport. John Dreher of the New York Times has tried his hand at it.

Some nominations are easy, as Babe Ruth in baseball and Man o' War for horse racing. Some will be questioned. Dreher picks for tennis Maurice E. McLoughlin, the California star of 40 years ago, and Francis Ouimet, his contemporary for golf. Both are chosen because of their work in popularizing the game. Otherwise most persons who ventured an opinion at all on the greatest golfer of all time would have named Bobby Jones. Big Bill Tilden would have been the popular choice for tennis but it may be that because he is later, he is better remembered.

Dreher's other choices are Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish miller, for track and field; Johnny Weissmuller for swimming, and for football a tie vote between Jim Thorpe, the Carlisle Indian, and Illinois' Red Grange, "the Galloping Ghost." Thorpe could also have qualified as the top performer in track and field.

For that matter, if the various top choices were competing with each other for the position of Super-Number One, the greatest athlete of all time, it would be hard to find anyone as superb in as many sports as Jim Thorpe.

MENACING ZOOMERS

One of the most pestiferous of all pestiferous and dangerous drivers is the intersection zoomer. This heedless creature goes tearing past cross streets at the imminent risk of adding to the day's vital statistics.

Intersection zoomers seem to be mainly of two types, those who like to go fast and count on others to be alert, and those who are simply careless.

Drivers in the first group may properly be charged with irresponsibility and a callous disregard for the rights of others. They behave as if they had an ingrown right-of-way, and as they scoot through intersections without even a token slowing of their headlong pace, they seem to say: "This is my street, and you'd better get out of my way!"

The careless ones, those who drive with their thoughts on a hundred other things, are almost as bad. They don't notice intersections. They go bumbling through without reducing speed, and for other drivers it's every man for himself.

There's little to choose between the careless intersection zoomers and the arrogant ones. They are both a menace.

Next time you're out to dinner try ordering "soup on the rocks." It's very New Yorky, but in spite of the wicked-sounding name, it's really just bouillon poured over ice cubes.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE SUPREME COURT

It has happened before and it is happening now that the Supreme Court of the United States is a controversial factor in a presidential election. Nobody can vote for a justice of the Supreme Court. He is appointed by the President, is confirmed by the Senate and holds office for life, unless impeached for misconduct or retires for old age. Once appointed, for whatever reason, a Supreme Court Justice sits no matter how often the administration changes during his life-time. The present Chief Justice, Earl Warren, former Governor of California, had never before had any judicial experience. His appointment was obviously political. While that in no way reflects unfavorably upon his capabilities, he has become a subject for controversy since he was elevated to the bench.

The principal criticism of the Court and the cause of its being an issue in this election is the old American quarrel over states' rights. Historically, the issue is a simple one. The United States is not a nation that grew out of the soil; it was formed. It was formed by the 13 colonies that rebelled against Great Britain in 1776 by enacting the Declaration of Independence. They attempted to govern themselves under the Articles of Confederation which were so loose that practically speaking no national government could function. Under the influence of the Federalist Party led by Alexander Hamilton, the Constitution was written and adopted and this has been our law since.

While the Constitution does establish a central government with specific authority, it protects states' rights by the 10th Amendment which declares:

"The powers not granted to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively or to the people."

The War Between the States settled the question of the right of a sovereign state to secede from the United States if it so chooses. Although the War Between the States did strengthen the federal government, it did not abolish states' rights and no amendment was ever adopted limiting the 10th Amendment or abolishing it.

Over the years, particularly during depressions and wars, the authority of the central government tended to expand and powers employed in such periods rarely were returned to the states of the people there.

Recent Supreme Court decisions have been regarded as tending to deprive the states of rights to which they are entitled by the Constitution. The Southern states, for instance, claim that they were making great progress in the solution of the Negro question but that a Supreme Court decision aroused such passions in the South that it set back racial relations in the South several decades. This decision is definitely an anti-states' rights decision.

Another example is the rejection of the conviction of the Communist Steve Nelson under the sedition law of the State of Pennsylvania. Under this decision of the Supreme Court, the sedition laws of 42 states were nullified. The attitude of the Court was that as long as a federal law covering a subject exists, a state law is unnecessary. Many constitutional lawyers regard this decision as bad law.

Another such instance was the decision overriding the provision in the New York City Charter for the automatic dismissal of any city employee who declines to discuss his relations to the Communist Party on the grounds of the protectives of the Fifth Amendment. Many lawyers hold that the Supreme Court exceeded its authority in this case.

Out of 13 decisions dealing with Communist cases, the Supreme Court decided six in such a manner that the Communist cause has gained new lease of life. If the Supreme Court pursues abstract justice as an end in itself, it is beyond and above criticism; in that case, however, the Court must recognize that it is not a third legislative chamber and that the Constitution does not provide for such a body.

On the other hand, no government agency can altogether flout public opinion. The current Supreme Court has run counter to public opinion and thereby has become a political issue in the country. If the Court is highly respected as it was when Edward D. White or William Howard Taft or Charles Evans Hughes was Chief Justice, it could pursue a course which caused men to pause in their attitudes, Earl Warren has not won such confidence or respect.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
MENTAL ATTITUDES OF MEDICAL WORKERS

I do not know exactly why it is but we experience a sense of shock if we read or hear of a medical staff going on strike or staying off work a day in protest against the conditions under which they have to work. It would appear that we expect more of so-called "professional" staff than we do of other types of workers. The only professions, so far as I am aware, who have not expressed their dissatisfaction with working conditions are the clergy and lawyers. If I am wrong on this fact, I would appreciate my readers so informing me.

What brings this to mind is the fact that in Great Britain during the first week of March of this year, 10,000 nurses associated with 33 mental hospitals declared they would no longer work overtime. This method was chosen to express their dissatisfaction with their pay and conditions of their work. According to the London Lancet, longer and longer hours are demanded of a dwindling staff who are not paid extra when they come early or stay late. Hospitals of Great Britain are suffering unduly from a shortage of nursing personnel, as are those of the United States and Canada. Not so long ago I saw an advertisement in a Canadian newspaper for nursing personnel to go to hospitals in the United States at much higher salaries than are being offered in Canada.

The management committees of hospitals generally in Great Britain are becoming uneasy at their inability to offer hospital workers rates of pay having reasonable relationship to what is paid by factories or airports. The Lancet comments: "We note with deepening anxiety the tendency of people in the health service to adopt mental attitudes and techniques of organized labor, which are often irreconcilable with those of a profession." But in all fairness, the Lancet goes on to say, "But in this case, as so often in industry, part of the responsibility for direct action lies with those who tend to delay necessary concessions until these are made urgent by a threat."

To quote Dr. Morris Fishbein in an editorial in Postgraduate Medicine, "American physicians and hospital administrators will remember that when the British Parliament proposed to take over the medical profession and the hospitals as a governmental function, the prediction was generally made that the attitudes generally associated with employment under such circumstances would soon prevail throughout Great Britain. Not many years have passed since the new methods began to function but here already is the evidence that the total administration of medicine as a government function is incompatible with the professional quality of the service."

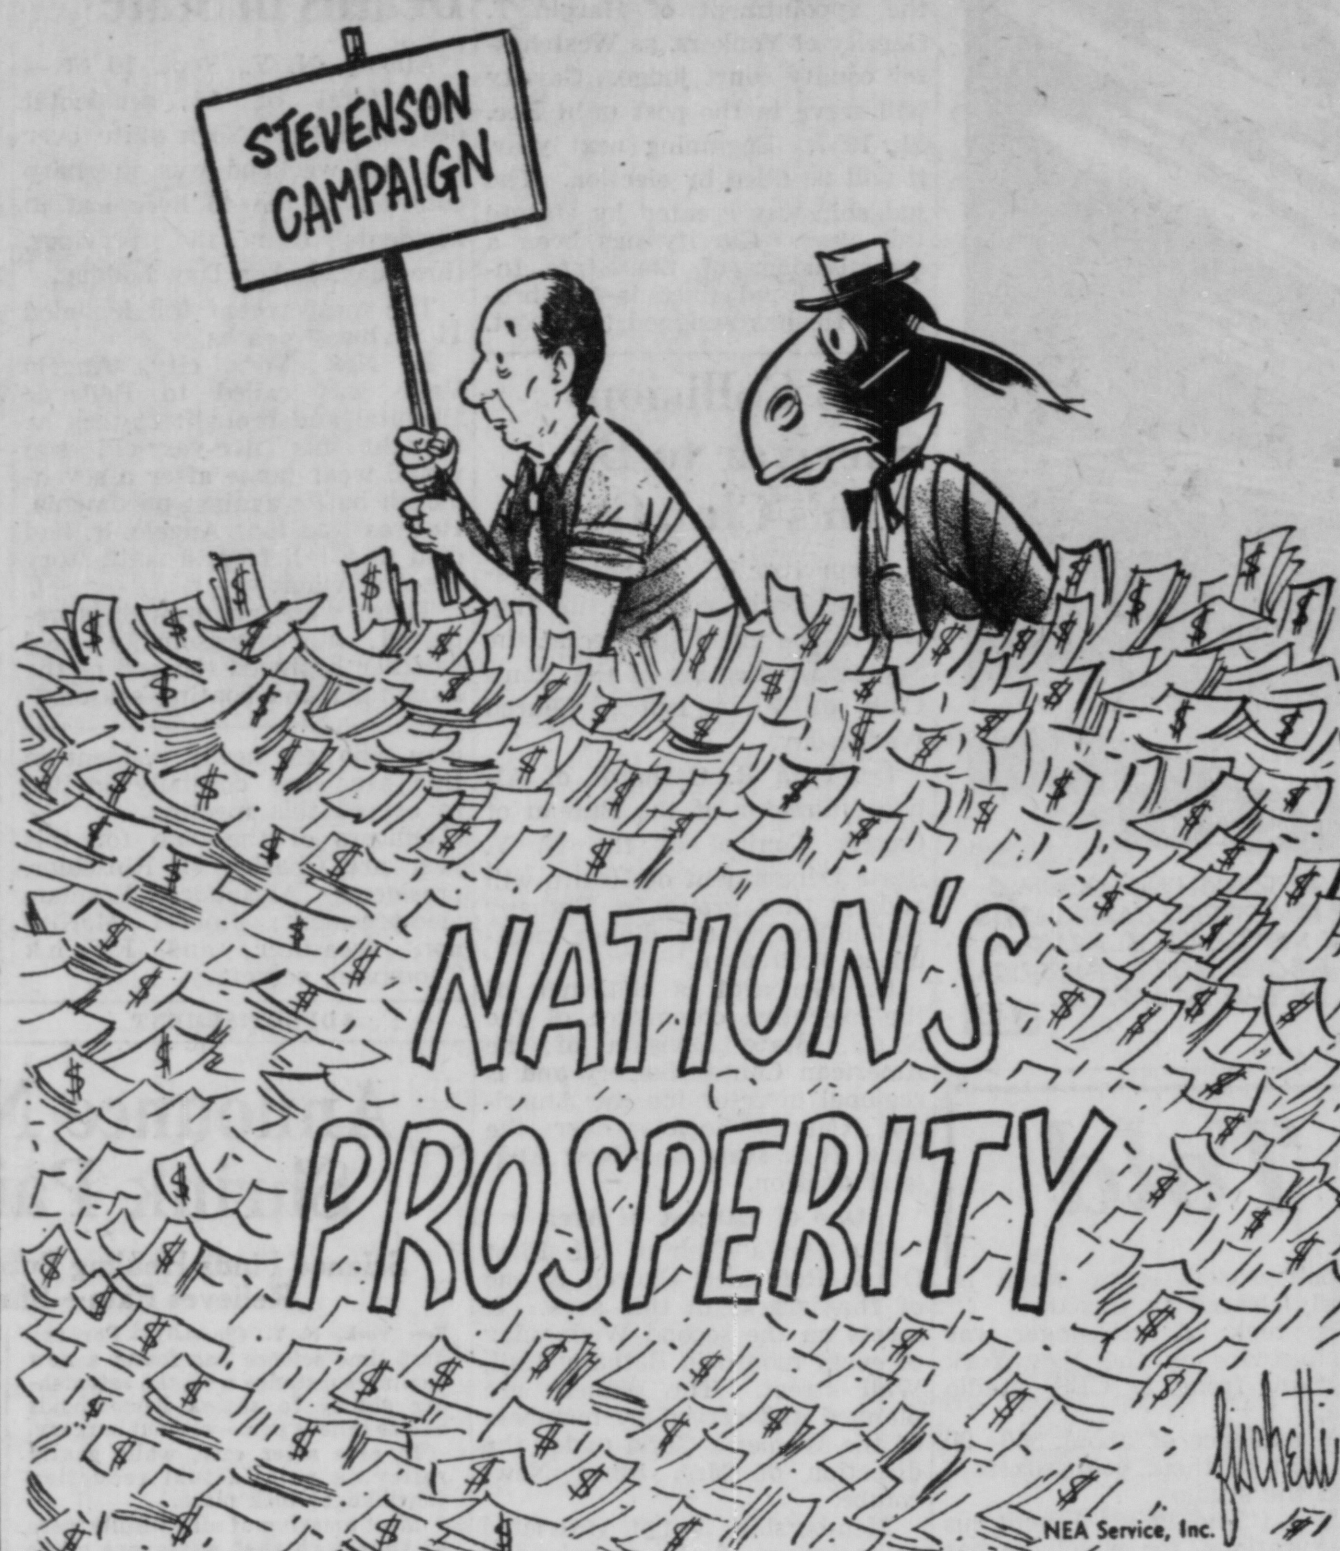

It is true that we expect more of physicians and nurses than strict adherence to certain working hours, we expect them to remain available whenever required. But are we prepared to pay for such services? This is the thought we should keep in mind to be really fair to the professional worker.

How Green Are the Grass Roots

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington—(NEA)—Twenty years from now, says Assistant Secretary of Labor J. Ernest Wilkins, people will wonder what all the excitement was about in 1955 and 1956 over the question of segregation vs. integration in public schools and employment.

He points to the progress that has been made toward settling this controversial issue in the last few years. The change in Washington, in particular, is most apparent.

Wilkins, a Missouri-born Chicago lawyer, is today the highest-ranking Negro official in the Eisenhower administration. He delivered one of the seconding speeches for Vice President Richard M. Nixon's nomination at San Francisco.

He is president of the Methodist Judicial Council, the highest layman's office in the church.

In 1953 Wilkins was chairman of the Commission on Government Contracts. He is now a member of President Eisenhower's Committee on Employment Policy.

IN THIS CAPACITY he has worked at upgrading qualified Negro employees in government. Many competent, well-educated Negroes don't try to get better positions under the U. S. Civil Service today, says Wilkins, because they don't want to be martyrs.

Secy. Wilkins is often confused with Roy Wilkins, head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, but they are not related.

Wilkins is a member of NAACP, however, and endorses its program. He defines this as an effort to protect Negro rights by completely legal means, securing compliance and enforcement of laws by court proceedings. There is no advocacy of force or violence.

It is pointed out that these are exactly the methods advocated by the 100 Southern congressmen who signed the manifesto to bring about reversal of the Supreme Court decision calling for integration in the public schools.

WILKINS THINKS earlier U. S. Supreme Court decisions that the states must provide separate but equal school facilities—particularly at the college level—did a great deal to improve education in states practicing segregation. He believes the futility of maintaining two separate school systems will become increasingly apparent as time goes on.

Wilkins is a life-long Republican. He ran for an Illinois judgeship once, but was defeated.

He feels many Negroes who formerly voted Democratic are shifting to the GOP, largely because of its racial policy.

He'll play an important part in the Republican campaign to win over more Negro voters under the civil rights plank in the new GOP platform.

WILKINS CORRECTLY predicted that Congress would not do anything about the Eisenhower administration's civil rights program, presented by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell. It was obviously a minimum reform program. But a majority of Congress was not conditioned to accept it.

Wilkins' own job in government is international labor relations. Earlier this year he went to Geneva as head of the American delegation to the International Labor Organization meeting and played an active part in its work.

In 1957 ILO will begin debate on the question of discrimination in employment. Then the U. S. will be on a spot.

Charges that the U. S. practices racial discrimination are frequently thrown at Wilkins in international labor circles.

He replies by admitting that conditions in the U. S. are not perfect, but that they are being improved. And he defends the position of the Negro in America as better than that of the colored races in nearly all other parts of the world.

Health for All

THE WORKING GIRL

Heaven will protect her, according to the old song, but many a mother lies awake nights worrying about her little girl who's just starting out in the business world. Is she getting enough sleep? Is she eating right? Is she wearing her rubbers?

Probably she isn't. Mother has reason to worry. Many a young girl away from home for the first time begins her new career by breaking the rules of health she's been taught at home. She doesn't order spinach at the drug store lunch counter.

Recently a metropolitan firm which employs large coveys of young girls as clerks and stenographers decided to set up a company blood bank. The girls responded bravely, but were turned away by the dozen. Anemia. Mild in most cases. Easily corrected. But a strong symptom of poor eating habits.

Most girls have enough sense to get back on the beam when poor nutrition begins to show in loss of energy, in dull hair and skin. They like to be pretty. And after all, early habits and training do have an influence in the long run. For those who don't get back to sensible eating fast, there's trouble ahead.

Poor health habits—particularly poor eating habits—are an invitation to tuberculosis. It's especially important for girls who go to the city from small town or country homes where they have built up little or no immunity to TB to be on their guard against this tragic disease.

Whether they are looking forward to successful careers, or looking for husbands, young women need glowing health to make the grade. Today, because of better living and working conditions TB does not take the terrible toll of young working girls that it did in the sweatshops of a generation ago. With modern treatment, most cases can be cured. But even today, TB, a preventable disease, wrecks many happy plans for the future. It's just plain silly for a girl to jeopardize health, beauty, and future happiness for the "fun" of breaking the rules.

So They Say..

The result of the London conference (on Suez crisis) was a success for Egypt.
—Aly Sabry, adviser to Egypt's Nasser.

I am not despondent, and I have no regrets. I'm very proud of my husband. I am sure he was willing to give his life for his country.
—Mrs. Elizabeth Jean Mattin, whose husband was aboard Navy plane shot down off China coast.

I think that I will now retire with "Joe Smith."
—Nebraska's GOP convention delegate Terry Carpenter.

Stevenson Campaign Seen Getting Off to a Poor Start

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 10 — Adlai E. Stevenson is off to a poor start—judging by the comments coming in from independent sources.

Thus, for example, the "Asbury Park (N. J.) Press," which sometimes supports Democrats and sometimes Republicans for the Presidency, reproves Mr. Stevenson for what it terms "the sneer approach." This has reference to the following quotation from one of the recent Stevenson speeches:

"I only hope my opponent has time to face some of the realities of our declining influence abroad and our lost opportunities at home—and I don't mean on the putting green."

The New Jersey editorial then says:

"Mr. Stevenson's scornful reference to the President's liking for golf may win votes for him in some quarters, but the nation will not be impressed. Most golfers will attest that golf provides relaxation and escape from pressures, thus making them fit to resolve day-to-day problems. Non-golfers will concede that the President must have the opportunity to follow his hobby. Roosevelt enjoyed sailing. Truman plays the piano. Churchill turned to painting, and Hoover preferred fishing."

"Only Himself to Blame"

"If Mr. Stevenson has embarked on a repetition of his 1952 campaign, when sneers, quips and witticisms were his forte, he will have only himself to blame if the voters repeat in 1956 their verdict of 1952."

"The New York Times" is also an independent newspaper and sometimes supports Democrats and sometimes Republicans. A few days ago it criticized Mr. Stevenson's first speeches and said in an editorial:

"The campaign is young, and Mr. Stevenson will have many opportunities to say more on these and other subjects. We believe it is a fair statement, however, that at certain points the early days of his campaign have been disappointing to a considerable number of independent voters."

Much of the criticism is directed at Mr. Stevenson's promise to end the military draft "at the earliest possible moment consistent with national safety." Some newspapers read into this a tendency to let down the nation's guard, and fears are expressed that neutralist sentiment in Europe will be encouraged and that all this will play into the hands of the Soviet Union.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

San Francisco, Sept. 9—There is not the slightest doubt that Joe Curran, now sitting on the committee on ethics of the AFL-CIO, was a knowing and willing accomplice and stooge of the Communist party throughout the war. He operated at sea and along the Atlantic, the Pacific, and the Gulf. Curran professes to be a ferocious Red-baiter, but Earl Browder himself was no more faithful to the party line when the party exalted Soviet Russia over the United States and sang "the Yanks are not coming."

On the other hand, Harry Lundeberg, president of the Seafarers' International Union of the AFL, has been an exuberant, bellicose Red-baiter for many years. He despises Curran and he never tires of taunting him with his meagre record as a seafaring man and his habitual absence from those anti-Communist riots which Lundeberg's men call beefs. Curran never took part in the rough-house on either side of the Communist issue when the AFL merged with the CIO.

Lundeberg had the painful alternative of pulling out of the great job-trust and going it alone, like the United Mine Workers, or submitting to the humiliation of technical membership in the CIO under Walter Reuther and in technical fraternity with Curran. The political penalty for secession was so great that Lundeberg stayed in the AFL but he still hates the CIO and speaks only with loathing of Curran and Reuther. He has contempt for George Meany for many reasons, but he grimly recalls that when he and his white caps went inland to capture the fruit and vegetable pickers and packing-house workers from Harry Bridges and hand them over to Dave Beck for the teamsters, Meany did not show up for the bloodshed.

He is just another of those lousy labor statesmen," Lundeberg said. "The bum was always somewhere else making speeches. Now the bum puts Curran on the ethical committee so he can hand the New York waterfront over to Bridges, and yet they keep talking about keeping the Communists off the docks."

Throughout those years, I too kept a close watch on Curran. The bum, as Lundeberg calls him, once threw a picket line around the New York World-Telegram and the uptown office of Scripps-Howard because they published disclosures of Curran's collusion with the Reds. I walked through them several times. There was not a sailor in either mob. They were typical union square riff-raff sent up from the Daily Worker. I had learned to spot that kind in the Newspaper Guild whose meet-

Reds Seem to Like It

The Communist newspapers seem to like some of the things that Mr. Stevenson has been saying. A Moscow dispatch to "The New York Times" a few days ago says:

"The Soviet press congratulated Adlai Stevenson on having 'utterly refuted' President Eisenhower's assertion that the United States now enjoyed a record prosperity."

"Trud," the newspaper organ of the Soviet trade unions said, for example, that Mr. Stevenson had made "a number of valuable admissions" which he told a Labor Day crowd in Detroit that there were 14,000,000 Americans in families with less than $1,000 income per year, whereas the average Soviet factory worker is supposed to earn $2,400 a year.

What Mr. Stevenson omitted to point out is that a vast number of the persons with incomes of $1,000 or less live on farms and work for owners who provide board and lodging. There are many domestic servants, also, for whom the statistics do not show as income the board and room they get from those who hire them.

Stevenson Strategy

The Stevenson strategy evidently is designed to portray America as in a condition far from prosperous, and the Soviet press has been quick to seize on the points made, arguing that "no matter which of the bourgeois parties is in power, America is a heaven only for the rich."

There is, of course, no way by which the Soviet press can be prevented from distorting anything that is said by either candidate here into some propaganda twist that benefits the Communist side. More of this sort of thing can be expected throughout the campaign. But the debate inside the United States cannot be won by extreme statements or by an attempt to disparage America's economic progress. Rather it would seem that a candidate seeking the Presidential office would come forth with a formula whereby those who are jobless would become employed. This means a discussion of the true incentives to better business and employment.

Mr. Stevenson's tactics thus far have been on the negative side—an attempt to prove that the nation is in a bad way and needs a change of regime. The argument would become more persuasive if it were on the affirmative side, and if constructive policies to improve the economic situation could be proposed that would appeal to the independent voters as worthy of their support.

(Reproduction Rights Reserved)

ing were crawling with them. I pointed out that Curran was screaming that we were terribly short of sailormen to deliver the stuff to Soviet Russia, but could spare enough pickets to man a whole flotilla. At that the bum called in his riff-raff.

Throughout those years a captive member of Curran's Soviet front, a sailor in good standing attended the meetings every week. I got not only the authorized minutes but a supplementary personal report of matters censored from the record. Adlai, of course, was collecting files of Curran's official personal publication, the Pilot, which was devoted in more or less equal parts to glorification of Joe Curran and the Communist cause. He conquered his aversion to the raging belatedly although his Pilot was constantly hollering up the challenge to the manhood of American sailors presented by German U-boats, mines and planes. After the Mediterranean had been made safe, he spent his vacation on a cruise in the guise of a sailor. The Pilot referred to it as a vacation trip. Another issue reported that the bum was on sick report because his wife had had a baby.

Area Farmers Try Psychology In Forum Tuesday

Area farmers will practice amateur psychology Tuesday as they discuss, "Why Do Farmers Farm?"

These "amateur psychologists" who are Farm Bureau membership committeemen from Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, Ulster, and Westchester counties will meet at 8 p. m. in the fire hall at New Paltz.

"Before we sign a new member, we must first understand his goals and desires. Then we can show how a general farm organization can help him achieve those goals," Fay Meade, director of organization of the New York Farm Bureau, said prior to the meeting.

Goals Outlined

The goals and desires of farmers will be outlined by the committeemen, all farmers themselves.

Meade said that non-member farmers will be contacted during the major part of the membership campaign in order to give every farmer a chance to join Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau is a non-profit organization that is farmer-controlled and is designed to help farmers in civic and legislative issues that affect agriculture and farm families.

Every member can be active in policy development of the organization, which includes a survey-of-opinion to be filled out by farmers in small neighborhood meetings. County, state and national issues are included in the policy development process.

Not for Sale Signs

The Italian expert's return is not recommended as a steady diet, but it worked like a charm in this case. He returned the eight of clubs!

South won in dummy with the jack of clubs and drew two rounds of trumps at once with the ace and king. He was afraid to take a finesse for fear of a club ruff. He felt sure that East had returned a singleton club.

When the queen of spades failed to drop, South was disap-

Church Membership Over 100 Million

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—The National Council of Churches says church membership in the United States has soared beyond the 100 million mark for the first time in history.

That's almost two of every three persons in the nation.

The council reported yesterday that the latest compilation of the yearbook of American Churches lists 100,162,529 members of all faiths. That compares with 97,482,611 last year.

"Continuing an upsurge that goes back to World War I, church membership gains in the past year again outstripped population gains," the council report said. "There are 2.8 per cent more church members as against 1.8 per cent more people." The council said the membership total includes 58,448,000 Catholics and 5,500,000 persons of the Jewish faith.

Eastern Orthodox Churches have 2,386,000 members. Buddhists total 63,000 and Moslems an estimated 10,000 to 20,000.

UP GO MONEY RATES

Several months ago, Brooklyn, N. Y. savings banks suddenly increased interest rates one half of 1 per cent yearly on deposit accounts. Immediately there was a flow of money from New York city banks to Brooklyn. Thrifty people were quick to take advantage of this situation.

Another attractive situation beckons to millions of thrifty savers. For the sixth time in less than two years, the Federal Reserve Board has increased the rediscount rate. Money rates have gone up all along the line.

And, as a result, high grade bond prices have gone down in price. As I write this, a U. S. Government 3 per cent bond due in 39 years can be bought at about 95 cents on the dollar. A 2½ per cent bond due in 9 years can be had for 91 cents on the dollar.

Boom Conditions

Boom conditions prevail in many industries, and bank borrowing is heavy. The Federal Reserve Board makes money more expensive to slow down this boom. This Board is a fountainhead of economic power in the United States. When dangerous inflationary trends develop, the Board attempts to curb them. And when deflationary tides start to roll in, it makes money easier and deepens America's credit base.

Now, out of the present situation many interesting things grow. There are thousands of small businesses and medium-sized corporations that periodically have to borrow money. Often, their financial statements are unsatisfactory to credit managers and, when they need money badly, they can't get it.

United States Government bonds are the highest grade collateral. Commercial banks make liberal loans against them. Here in New York advances of from 80 to 90 per cent of the market value are the rule.

Consequently, it would be wise policy for many small borrowers to carry a portfolio of government securities against such times during the year when they need liberal and quick credit. And the more difficult the merchandising problems of business enterprises, the more necessary it is to own such a portfolio.

Portfolio Advantages

I shall illustrate. Here is a book publisher. He has good and bad years. In good years, he invariably gets too enthusiastic and expands too much. Then when a lean year comes along and a good book lands in his office, he hasn't the capital to promote it. He can't borrow. His current position doesn't warrant it.

What should he do? Why in a good year (and 1956 is such), he should buy $25,000 U. S. Government 3 per cent bonds for about $23,750. Then when a slow year comes along, he can go into any commercial bank and get instantly a sizeable loan against them.

And, of course, the increase in the basic interest rate of the country is a pleasant invitation to millions of thrifty people to buy the best bonds in the world at a discount.

Present boom conditions will eventually level off. The Federal Reserve Board, as I noted before, has increased rediscount rates six different times in about 20 months. A reversal of this hard money policy will take place when economic conditions in America aren't so favorable. That will mean that United States Government bonds will advance in price. Bonds selling for 91 and 95 cents on the dollar will once again go to around face value.

When boom conditions exist in America, the Federal Reserve Board makes money more expensive and when a depression threatens, money is made cheaper. Government bond prices fluctuate when these things happen, and invite investor participation.

For Fall's Hearty Meals,
Lamb Shanks Are Ideal

TENDER, SATISFYING lamb shanks, crowned with barley, make just the dish to cope with appetites of school days.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor Economy is in order. Food prices are stiff and appetites lusty. School opens soon and meals will be more substantial. That's why this hearty and economical recipe from our gifted friend, Mabel Stegner, prominent food expert, is right in season.

Baked Lamb Shanks and Barley (Makes 4 servings)

Four small lamb shanks, about 2 pounds, 2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet, ¼ cup fat, 1 small clove garlic, minced, ½ cup finely diced onion, ½ cup pearly barley, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 3 cups boiling water, 2 cups sliced carrots.

Brush lamb shanks with bouquet. Melt fat in Dutch oven. Brown shanks in fat over moderate heat. Remove shanks from pan. Add garlic and onion to fat in pan and let cook 5 minutes. Stir in kitchen bouquet remaining after brushing lamb shanks. Add the barley and brown lightly. Arrange the lamb shanks over the barley. Sprinkle with parsley, salt, celery salt and pepper. Add 2 cups of the boiling water. Cover and allow to cook over low heat for 1½ hours. After 1 hour, add the remaining 1 cup of water and the carrots, mixing lightly into the barley. Continue cooking, covered, until barley and carrots are done.

Quick Salad Dressing One cup salad oil, 1/3 cup vinegar, 1 cup catsup, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 clove garlic, crushed, optional. Place all ingredients in a pint jar with a tight fitting lid. Shake. Refrigerate until well chilled. Shake before using. Marinate cabbage in dressing for 20 minutes before serving.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Baked lamb shanks with barley, hot French bread, butter or margarine, red and white cabbage salad, quick salad dressing, apple Betty, coffee, tea, milk.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

I see there was a crocodile caught in the Hudson River at Port Ewen, back in August of 1902. It was a young one and it was near the Jeremiah Relyea ice house, according to The Kingston Weekly Freeman, of Thursday, August 7th, 1902. It was nearly two feet long and was first seen by Thomas Brady and LeGrand Doyle in the rear of Mr. Relyea's house. "They tried to catch it, but it quickly plunged back into the river. Mr. Relyea was informed, but doubted the story."

As they were watching the crocodile again appeared in the same place. Approaching it carefully, Mr. Relyea caught it with a large iron rake, and threw it back from the river and it was secured while fighting savagely. It is now in the possession of Mr. Relyea, who has placed it in a large tank, where it can be seen by any who may have a desire to do so.

Years ago, we used to swim at Tucker's Beach in Port Ewen. There was the dock we could jump off, or the inlet, but in my time I never saw anything alive except the swimmers. They had little lizards now and then, about three inches long and some boys used to take them home as pets, but such a crocodile would have sent all us home for good.

They had quite a long farm column called "Farm, Orchard and Garden" with small items such as: "A lady who was in the bee business in a small way, keeping 12 swarms, did well with them until a distillery was started in her neighborhood. After that the bees would go off and get drunk and would not work." Also they were fighting the use of oleo very strongly in those days. They did not find a good coloring, so were trying to feed the animals carrots.

For instance they had such sayings back in 1902 as: "The best hay is cut in the morning and put in the barn in the afternoon." Or another item from this column of a half a century ago: "In the days of Sophocles, the Greeks, not having offices of record, used to record the existence of a real estate mortgage by setting a stone in the corner of the mortgaged field with the amount loaned and the name of the lender thereon."

Sleightsburgh had its boat building industry in those days as item in an August 28th, 1902 local paper states: "A large barge was launched from Baisden's Sleightsburgh boatyard at high tide on Saturday. This barge is one of the largest ever built here. It is for the use of the Ontario and Western railroad in transferring freight about New York harbor."

An item in the September 25, 1902 local press tells about the Merritt store being rented to the Mohican Company. "Judge Clearwater, as counsel for the estate of the late J. Albert Merritt, has rented the store formerly occupied by James O. Merritt and Co. and recently by Masterson, Peggs and Co., to the Mohican Co., of which Frank Munsey is president. The Mohican Co. will take immediate possession and use the same for the sale of fine groceries. In connection with the grocery business the company will also conduct a bakery and market. The Mohican Co. runs similar stores in 21 different cities. The company has looked Kingston over carefully and has concluded that there is a first class opening here." Then the Mohican Company came to Kingston over a half a century ago.

'Happy Birthday, Jesus'

BY FRANK TRIPP

A few weeks ago this column boldly asked, "Why, not applause in church?" Many readers wrote their opinions; some sympathetic, some cautious, others caustic and critical.

One letter conveys such a beautiful thought that it is shared with you. It reads, in part:

"Applause in church? I agree with you wholeheartedly. Like you I ask, 'Why not?' . . . My three-year-old grandson was very interested last Christmas when I had our Nativity scene on a table.

"I explained the story and he insisted that Jesus be brought out of the barn where he could see Him better. The next thing I knew the house was ringing with 'Happy Birthday, Dear Jesus.'"

"Not only did he sing for Dear Jesus, but for the wise men, Mary, Joseph, and for the little cow and the little donkey."

"NOW THERE WAS the birth of a good, wholesome religion! The simple, honest, complete belief of a child—with rejoicing in it."

"But some of these Sunday mornings he will be crammed into clothes that he has to keep clean, admonished not to laugh or shout, and his grown-up religious education will begin."

"He will not be allowed to get Jesus 'out of the barn' where he can see Him better—not ever again!"

"We could use some applause in church, as well as in our daily lives. My friend, if you will come with me some Sunday morning to our small church with its small congregation, I will give out with some small applause, if you will. Our small, young preacher has at times truly deserved applause."

Bully for you, Mrs. Katherine Denson of Osceola, Pa.

BUT ALL do not take this view. There are more austere conceptions and stern beliefs that reverence should not be joyful or demonstrative. Such as, "For shame; you would destroy the holy of holies."

"Okay about ringing more church bells, but no applause in church," epitomizes the sentiment of many.

A psychiatrist might say that my adult phobia about church bells is a hangover from childhood remembrance of bells ringing my mother to church, with me by the hand. And that the applause complex comes from the "Amens" of my elders in the faith in which I was reared. They were a form of applause.

So it is easier for me to imagine applause in church than it is for one who has never experienced congregation expression during church service. Let dissenters be assured of no intent to trespass upon the customs of any creed or individual.

AMONG ALL of the critics, some downright abusive, not a single one spoke against more ringing of church bells.

One fellow wrote: "We started early for an all-day Sunday auto trip. Passing through a small village, the church bells shamed us. As an example to the children we stopped and went to church. It didn't tickle the kids very much, but my wife and I felt better all day long. But for the bells, we never would have done it."

Maybe the pause saved them meeting a speed demon, head on. Who knows?

SOMEHOW, as a one-time press agent, I had the idea that getting people into a church is something like getting them into a theater. By making it a cheerful place that they would like to go.

And it seemed worth while to get more people into churches. If I'm wrong about that, let's forget the whole business; church bells and all.

The most powerful gasoline the most powerful cars can use

Super Shell with TCP

- a new grade of gasoline—the successor to Shell Premium
- higher than high test
- more aromatics—the power ingredients of aviation fuel
- TCP unleashes the full power of high octane

High-compression engines in today's automobiles were designed to deliver power undreamed of just a few short years ago.

Yet, many of these engines are not delivering all the power their owners paid for, even on premium-grade gasolines.

To meet this critical need for a new higher grade of gasoline, the Shell Oil Company now introduces the most powerful gasoline the most powerful cars can use—Super Shell. It's the successor to Shell Premium Gasoline.

Higher than any of today's "high-test" gasolines, Super Shell enables today's motorists to enjoy more power than they ever thought possible from their automobiles.

At the same time, this added power will be smoother and quieter—for Super Shell gives anti-knock protection at full throttle over the entire speed range.

Super Shell gives this improved performance because it has a high concentration of aromatics, such as benzene, xylene, toluene, the power ingredients of aviation gasoline. This gives Super Shell a built-in "power pack."

For this very reason, Super Shell is "tailor-made" for the still more powerful '57 automobiles.

And Super Shell also contains TCP*, the additive that neutralizes power-stealing engine deposits. That's how Super Shell unleashes the full power of high octane . . . and keeps a car delivering its full power.

You'll see the new white Super Shell pump at your Shell Dealer's. That's where you get the most powerful gasoline the most powerful cars can use!

Soviet Tells World That Nuclear Weapon Tested by Her September 2

Moscow, Sept. 10 (AP)—Soviet Russia announced the explosion today of another of her nuclear weapons, the fourth in a series of atomic tests that started Aug. 24.

The announcement, unprecedented for its promptness, finally beat the United States in disclosing the testing of one of the Soviet Union's own atomic devices.

Tass, official Soviet news agency, distributed the announcement at 6 a. m. (10 p. m., EST Sunday), and made a special phone call to western correspondents to make sure they did not overlook it. The unusual hour and speed indicated Moscow is determined that the United States no longer will be first with such news.

It confirmed a previous statement by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission on Sept. 3 that another test explosion was held in the Soviet Union on Sept. 2.

Second Test Cited
On Aug. 31 the Russians with unusual promptness said they had exploded on Aug. 30 a new and different nuclear weapon "applicable to the arming of various kinds of troops" and that this was the second test in a series that started Aug. 24.

Despite their promptness, however, the Russians were about 1½ hours behind the announcement by President Eisenhower, who told a news conference that Moscow had conducted the tests in "wartime secrecy" while talking publicly of abolishing all atomic weapons.

Today's Announcement
Today's announcement said only:

"On Sept. 2 and 10 of this year in the Soviet Union were held serial tests of atomic weapons in connection with a program of scientific research work."

"With the aim of increasing security for the population the explosions were conducted, as in the past, at a great height far removed from populated areas."

It gave no idea of the size of the weapon, or whether hydrogen weapons were involved.

The time of the announcement indicated that the test was conducted far east of Moscow, presumably in the central Asian region, where it already would be daylight at 6 a. m., Moscow time.

President Names Site
In disclosing the Soviet tests on Aug. 31, President Eisenhower for the first time fixed the site of the Soviet proving grounds as somewhere in southwest Siberia.

U. S. announcements said the Soviet explosions were "less than a megaton"—or less than the force of one million tons of TNT.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission said on Sept. 3 that the U. S. had made 13 announcements about Russian nuclear tests, but that the number of Soviet tests was "significantly higher."

He indicated there was something unusual about the current series by saying the United States limited itself to making statements about explosions in the Soviet Union which were of "special interest because of their large size, their special character or some other unusual fact."

Tactical Use Indicated
Soviet reference to arming troops has been taken as an indication they were testing weapons designed for tactical use.

Indian political leaders have expressed concern over the danger of radioactive fallout from the Soviet tests. The site of the blasts has been pinpointed by Japanese scientists as in Kazakhstan, north of India. Indian Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament, however, he could do nothing about it even though the Indian government is opposed to all atomic tests.

The Soviet announcement today preceded the start of a series of four British tests of atomic weapons scheduled to be held Tuesday at Maralinga in southern Australia.

Australian dispatches said weather conditions were favorable for the first test to be held at 7:30 a. m. Tuesday (5:30 p. m., EST Monday).

Bronx Fisherman Dies at Rifton

Herman Marcus, 49, of the Bronx, died suddenly early Saturday night while fishing in the Wallkill river at Rifton.

Mr. Marcus, who was fishing from a dock with a companion, Louis Bernstein, 43, also of the Bronx, suffered a heart attack at 7:10 p. m. and was rushed to Kingston Hospital by Moylan Ambulance of Rosendale. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

Corner Francis J. McCordle of Kingston issued a verdict of death due to coronary occlusion. Mr. McCordle said Mr. Marcus, who had been under the care of his family physician for some time for a heart ailment, had complained of not feeling well shortly before the attack.

He was a furrier by trade and frequently fished in the Rifton area. He and Mr. Bernstein motored up early Saturday morning and had been fishing all day.

Mr. Marcus is survived by his widow and two children. Deputy Sheriff Peter Peterson of the Ulster county sheriff's office assisted in the investigation.

The Kingston branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its first meeting of the 1956-57 year Tuesday night in the vocational building at Kingston High School, it was announced today by Mrs. Russell Hope Robbins, president.

Mrs. Robbins said the local branch would be host for one of the six area conferences to be held in the state this fall on various phases of the association's program.

Delegates from the Lower Hudson Area comprising Newburgh, Nyack, Pearl River, Peekskill and Poughkeepsie, in addition to Kingston, will meet at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Saturday, Oct. 6, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. James Cawston, former AAUW branch president, and Mrs. Morton Zucker who planned the successful meeting on mental health last April.

Mrs. Robbins said the conferences afford an opportunity for members to exchange ideas with leaders from other branches. The committee has planned a series of discussion sessions. The complete program will be published later this month.

The Kingston branch has carried out on a local level the national program of "putting education to work practically." Mrs. Robbins pointed out. It has continued to offer an annual scholarship at Kingston High School to a girl graduate who is continuing her studies in college. IN THE PROCESS OF BEING BUILT

"Some people we know are building a house not too far from where we live. While out diving with my husband and daughter one afternoon, we passed the street where they are building. I told my husband to stop the car as I wanted to look around and see what the house was like and also how far they had gone on it. My daughter was against going in and so she stayed in the car. While we were going through the house the new house owners came by to see how the house was progressing. We greeted them and told them we liked the house very much. My daughter said that she was never so embarrassed in all her life and is sure that they think we are very nosy. But I can't see that there was anything wrong in going through a house that is in the process of being built, can you? I would very much like to know what you think about this."

What you did was perfectly natural and not at all improper.

Senator and Governor

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how to address a United States senator when writing to him? (2) I also would like to know how to address the envelope to a governor.

A. Answer: (1) Specially a senator is addressed Senator John Jones (his house address). Officially, he is addressed as The Hon. John Jones, Senator from . . . The formal beginning is Sir or Dear Sir. Informal beginning is Dear Senator Jones. (2) A governor in his own state is addressed, His Excellency The Governor, followed by his state's capital. Out of his state he is addressed "The Honorable Henry Brown, Governor of whatever his state."

Twenty serving questions and answers are included in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 504, "Etiquette of Table Setting." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to Dept. EP, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

FLATBUSH REFORMED CHURCH

Mrs. Van Wagenen's Record Lauded

lets and brochures and displays from the state division, Mrs. Van Wagenen and a handful of faithful associates organized the Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society. Dr. Bush presented Mrs. Van Wagenen with a beautiful silver tray as a token of remembrance from the unit.

Richard M. Kalish, co-chairman of the testimonial committee, presented Mrs. Van Wagenen with a leather-bound portfolio containing the program of the event and numerous telegrams and letters of best wishes. He told her, "We all have great love and affection for you. You have been a magnificent leader. We pray that you have a long, healthy and happy life."

Subject Avoided
When Mrs. Van Wagenen spoke, she said, "I don't feel I have earned all this recognition, but I appreciate it."

Recounting some of her experiences, she brought out that "When we started to organize, it was difficult to even speak of cancer to anyone."

Nobody even wanted to think of the dread disease, which made the challenge of organizing a cancer control program a gigantic project.

But Mrs. Van Wagenen called on her experience as a church and civics projects organizer to help in the new field.

Really Snowed Under
She told of the many seemingly unsurmountable barriers in getting the state division started in 1936, and pointed out that even the weather with its wintry blasts and snowstorms stalled her traveling itinerary, all undertaken on a basis of no funds provided.

Snowdrifts blocked her car sometimes, trains and buses ran off schedule leaving her stranded in places without hotels.

Humor punctuated her recollections. Once she was stalled in a town without a hotel—not even a restaurant.

"But finally I got a sandwich in a little place. It was my first introduction to a 'Joint,'" she laughed.

Then a clergyman's wife invited her to stay for the night, to continue her mission in the morning.

World War 2 came along with gasoline and tire rationing to give her more headaches.

Challenge Continues
When she left the state division after 10 years and devoted full attention to Ulster county, there was no letup to the challenge, but the workers she rallied around her changed a decision she had made that "I felt I couldn't go on."

"I'll never forget Mrs. Kenneth Duncan of Wallkill," Mrs. Van Wagenen said in a serious vein. "She was a great help."

Her husband, Dr. Harry P. Van Wagenen, gave her great encouragement from the early beginning and he added extra spark to her Ulster project.

Prior to acquisition of an office, the Van Wagenen home was headquarters with a back porch piled almost to the ceiling with cancer control literature.

One early meeting brought out three people. "That's the way it was in those days," Mrs. Van Wagenen said.

She was disappointed, but not discouraged. "I knew progress would be slow."

At another meeting the doctor didn't show up to talk to what looked like a gathering that might stimulate just the interest needed to get the enterprise going at the desired pace.

Picture Changes
Then Mrs. Van Wagenen appealed to Dr. Frederic Holcomb, who was president of the Ulster County Medical Society. As one of those at the dinner, he heard that his pioneering among the physicians did much to help the cause, which many were inclined to consider socialized medicine.

An active speakers' bureau was formed. Dentists, nurses and others interested in health rallied to Mrs. Van Wagenen's cause. The fight was on against cancer.

Women of the county showed more interest each day and joined her program. She paid them great tribute for their efforts.

The ultimate in the big drive came in the form of the tumor clinic adjacent to Kingston Hospital, which is open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. weekdays. Dressings are available there for patients.

Although the project was a tedious one, it has been interesting, Mrs. Van Wagenen told her friends, whom she urged to continue their interest in cancer control.

Toastmaster Jorgensen likened the cancer control program to the breaking of a large stone, which severs under continuous hammering. He said of Mrs. Van Wagenen's efforts: "Every blow she has dealt will count in victory over cancer some day. We are grateful to her."

Others on Committee
Serving on the dinner committee with Mrs. Snyder, Mr. Kalish and Dr. Bush were Mrs. James H. Betts, Mrs. Lloyd R. LeFever, Mrs. Henry Knaust and Charles M. Rinschler, Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, (U. S. Navy, retired) was publicity chairman.

rectors, Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society; and the Rev. Donald P. Reidy, assistant pastor St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, who offered the invocation.

Teaching Mission

Dr. Falshaw the conductor of the four day teaching mission was for many years a missionary and teacher in India. She comes to this city following a series of similar duties in a number of the southern Diocese of the Episcopal Church.

Morning Study
The morning study session today was entitled "The Holy Spirit and Your Personal Life."

This began at 9 o'clock as do all of the morning sessions through Wednesday. This same address will be repeated this evening in the church at 8 o'clock for the benefit of working men and women who are unable to attend morning sessions.

The subject for Tuesday's address will be "The Holy Spirit and the Life of the Church."

Leavittown Man
Injured at Glasco
Frank J. Kollmann, 36, of Leavittown, Pa., suffered abrasions of the face, neck and shoulders about 9:30 p. m. Saturday when his 1956 sedan went out of control on Route 32 about two miles south of Glasco.

Mr. Kollmann was removed to Dale Sanitarium, Saugerties, by Laylor Ambulance, where he spent the night. He left the sanitarium Sunday morning.

Trooper William Shurter of the Kingston state police reported that Mr. Kollmann was traveling north on Route 32 when he failed to negotiate a curve, went of the right side of the highway and struck a tree, recrossed the road to the left side of the highway and struck a utility pole and two more trees, coming to a stop on the lawn of Henry Ziegler of RD 3, Saugerties.

Shurter said the automobile was totally demolished. The accident is still under investigation.

Cut Is Accidental
Examiner Reports
The death of a 44-year-old Poughkeepsie bellhop, who fell down a flight of stairs Friday afternoon while carrying a bag of empty beer bottles, has been listed as accidental due to hemorrhage caused by abdominal lacerations.

Dr. Chester Golding, Dutchess county medical examiner, said in his verdict that the death of Russell Roberts of 42 Pershing avenue was caused specifically by many lacerations of the liver and small bowels.

Mr. Roberts was on his way to a neighborhood store in Poughkeepsie to purchase beer at the time of the mishap. He fell while descending from the second floor.

Mr. Roberts was taken to Vassar Bros. Hospital where he died at 2:58 a. m. Saturday.

American experts sought to determine whether there was any possibility of marrying the new Egyptian proposal with the hammering. He said of Mrs. Van Wagenen's efforts: "Every blow she has dealt will count in victory over cancer some day. We are grateful to her."

Colonials Lose to Bronx, 13-6 After Blanking Rookies, 1-0

Locals End Loop Play With 4 Wins, 12 Losses

The Kingston Colonials closed its New York-New Jersey League season by bowing to the Bronx Mohawks 13-6 after shading the Hudson Rookies 1-0 in an exhibition game Saturday in a doubleheader at Dietz Stadium.

The Colonials final mark in the loop reads four wins and 12 losses. Their permanent position in the standings won't be determined until the circuit closes out its schedule.

THE BRONX GAME was another long drawn-out affair lasting 2 hours and 45 minutes. An added discomfort was the chilly weather which was more suited for football than baseball.

Both teams were sloppy afield, being guilty of eight errors each. The Colonials played with a patched up lineup remotely resembling the team that had begun the season.

The Mohawks, who defeated Kingston 7-5 earlier in the year, collected but eight hits to their rivals' six, but made the most of the Colonial fielding lapses. They scored runs in every inning except the fourth and ninth and had the game safely tucked away as early as the third frame.

Jim Mackey started on the mound for Manager Fred Davi's crew, but lasted just two innings plus and then gave way to Catskill hurler Duke Deyo who finished up. Mackey departed with the score 3-2 and, of course, was nicked for the loss.

THE COLONIALS took a temporary 2-1 lead in the first inning, both runs being scored as unearned. The metropolitan nine shoved over a pair in the second to offset the Colonial scores and were never headed off.

The Bronx got their first three hits of the game in the third when it scored five times to clinch the verdict. Al Lindsey, pitcher Stan Lewis and Ray Holland made the blows between three errors and four walks. After Mackey granted the fourth pass to load the bases Deyo was called in and he got the last out after the Mohawks had paraded 10 men to the plate.

Both teams tallied in the fifth and after the Mohawks boosted the count to 10-3 in the sixth, the Colonials made their biggest feature of the game in the bottom of the round as Red Gorsline rapped a base-clearing double to slash the deficit in half.

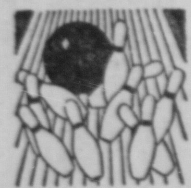

The invaders wasted little time in getting the runs back, scoring a trio in the seventh on three hits and an error to complete the game's scoring.

LEWIS WENT all the way behind the fat bulge. He set the Colonials down in order in three innings, although fairly wild throughout most of the contest. He walked four and fanned the same number.

Perhaps the only bright spots for the Colonials was the defensive play of outfielders Frank Secreto and Phil Gatti. Secreto came through with a dandy running over-the-shoulder catch of Dom Colavito's drive in deep center with the bases loaded to get Mackey out of a first inning jam.

Gatti, who must have the best throwing arm in the league, cut loose with another of his patented pegs in the ninth to double up Lou Marciano at third.

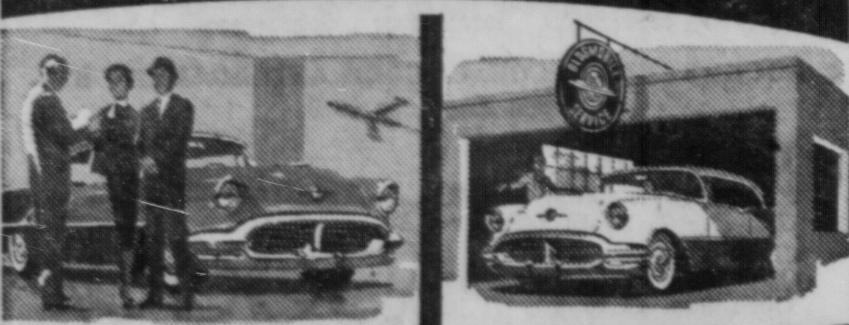

The first game was just the opposite of the afterpiece. It was limited to just 4½ innings because of the lateness of the starting time of the nightcap.

Irland Quits 'Y' Directorship

To Take Teaching Job in Gorham

William Irland, physical director of the Kingston YMCA, has resigned his position, according to an announcement today by Lou Schaefer, 'Y' general secretary.

Irland plans to take a position in physical education at the central school in Gorham, which is in central New York and near his home town.

In his letter of resignation, Irland said that he thought 'public school physical education would be more to my liking and adaptability than work of the YMCA.'

Irland came to Kingston after serving as assistant physical 'Y' director at Batavia for two years and following a year as director of activities at the 'Y' in Geneva. Schaefer stated that the 'Y' personnel committee is in the process of interviewing applicants for the vacant position. He added that he hoped the position would be filled in the very near future.

Schaefer indicated that he and Frank Rebolio, youth secretary, will continue with the business of promoting the Autumn Basketball League and the organization and supervision of regular gym classes until a successor is named.

Redlegs Drop Further Behind

Brave-Dodger Battle Looms For National League Pennant

BY JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

A close-fisted three-team tug o'war only a few days ago, the National League pennant race apparently has simmered down today to a hand-to-hand struggle between the fuzzy-cheeked Braves of Milwaukee and the hard-bitten, veteran Dodger crew of Brooklyn.

While the Braves were rebounding Sunday from five straight defeats with a 7-5 and 5-1 doubleheader sweep in Chicago and the Dodgers were knocking off the New York Giants 6-1, the third place Cincinnati Redlegs absorbed a crushing 13-inning 6-5 defeat in St. Louis to drop three games off the pace—and perhaps out of the pennant fight.

The double triumph came in the nick of time for the bruised and bloody but unbowed Braves. They enabled the Braves not only to retain their grip on first place but sent them east—and to Brooklyn—with a full game lead over the Dodgers, whom they meet in a crucial two-game series tomorrow night and Wednesday afternoon.

National League pennant race at a glance:

Team	W	L	Pct.	GB	To
Milwaukee	83	54	.606	—	17
Brooklyn	82	55	.599	1	17
Cincinnati	80	57	.584	3	17

Milwaukee (17)—At home (3), Chicago 3; Away (14), Brooklyn 2, Cincinnati 1, New York 2, Philadelphia 4, Pittsburgh 2, St. Louis 3.

Brooklyn (17)—At home (13), Milwaukee 2, Cincinnati 2, Chicago 2, Philadelphia 2, Pittsburgh 3, St. Louis 2; Away (4), Pittsburgh 4.

Cincinnati (17)—At home (5), Milwaukee 1, St. Louis 4; Away (12), Brooklyn 2, Chicago 2, New York 2, Philadelphia 4, Pittsburgh 2.

While the Braves and Dodgers hammer away at each other, the Redlegs will try to pick up precious ground in the Polo Grounds, where they will face the seventh place Giants Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

The American League race is all over but the playing out of the schedule. The runaway Yankees widened their first place margin to 11 games over Cleveland and Chicago, who split a pair while New York was beating Washington 2-1. Any combination of eight New York victories and/or White Sox and Indians defeats will clinch the seventh flag in eight years for the Yankees.

CHICAGO CAME back to defeat Cleveland 6-2 after the Indians had won the opener 4-1. Boston's fourth place Red Sox nipped Baltimore 3-2 in 12 inings and Detroit walloped Kansas City 7-3 for a sweep of the four-game series.

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia swapped a pair of 10-inning decisions, the Pirates winning the opener 4-1 and the Phillies winning the second game 6-5.

The embattled Braves were hard pressed to win both games from the cellar-dwelling Cubs. They spotted Chicago four runs on homers by Don Hoak, Monte Irvin and Hobie Landrith but roared back like champions to tie the score in the fifth and went ahead in the sixth on Bill Bruton's double, a passed ball and relief pitcher Ernie Johnson's sacrifice fly.

THE BRAVES waited until the seventh inning of the second game to snap a 1-1 tie. A walk and singles by Chuck Tanner, Felix Mantilla, Danny O'Connell and Henry Aaron did the trick producing three runs. Aaron, with five hits, and three RBIs was the big man on the attack. Brooklyn had an easy time of it as young Don Drysdale muffed the Giants with a three-hitter while Carl Furillo drove in four runs with a home run and single. The 20-year-old rookie righthander won his fifth game of the campaign, four of them against the Giants. Willie Mays' 30th homer was the only damaging blow off him. Drysdale, himself, chipped in with his first major league homer.

Billy Hunter's two-run triple in the seventh gave Whitey Ford his 17th victory in a southpaw duel with Chuck Stobbs. Ford fanned 11 and gave up six hits to only four for Stobbs, who had beaten the Yankees three times previously.

Since 1845, by Act of Congress, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November is the date for choosing presidential electors.

'Y' Cage Meeting Slated Tuesday

The YMCA Autumn Basketball League has scheduled a meeting of managers and team representatives for Tuesday at 7:15 p. m. at the Y to organize both the 'A' and 'B' leagues.

Lou Schaefer, Y general secretary, made the announcement today.

Schaefer said that all teams of last year are expected to have a representative or proxy at the session. He added that any new team managers or individuals interested in the Y basketball league are invited to attend the meeting.

Schaefer expressed hope that the league would be set to begin play the last week of this month. For more information, persons are requested to phone the Y.

THE BOUT WILL be broadcast and telecast (ABC, 9 p. m., EST) coast to coast with TV blackouts in Syracuse, Utica, Rochester, Binghamton and Watertown.

Basilio, a 2-1 choice when he dropped his crown to Saxton in Chicago, March 14 on a controversial decision, is an 8-5 favorite to win it back on his home grounds. The ring-scarred veteran claimed he was "robbed" in Chicago and most of the fans and boxing writers felt Carmen was entitled to the verdict.

Saxton became the eighth man to reign over the 147-pounders twice when he beat Basilio. He had won the crown from Cuba's Kid Gavilan on another disputed verdict and lost it to Boston's Tony DeMarco, who handed it in turn to Basilio on a 12th round technical knockout.

WILLIE TROY of Washington and England's John L. Sullivan, a couple of attack-minded middleweights, clash tonight (Monday) in the television (DuMont, 9 p. m., EST) feature 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. Troy's record is 33-5-2 with 23 kayos. Sullivan's record is 64-20-3, including 35 KOs.

2 Kingston Teams Gain Semi-Finals

The four top-seeded doubles teams have reached the semi-finals of the New Paltz State University Teachers College clay court tennis tournament.

Heading the group is the top-seeded duo of Fred Del Rosario and Mike Sheehan of Kingston. They set back Richard Bird and Al York, of New Paltz, 6-3, 6-1 in one of the quarter-final matches played over the weekend on the Paltz courts.

Also advancing was the team of Marty Kaye and Joe Lacey of Kingston who ousted Bill Haggerty and Chuck Wolbers, of New Paltz, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1.

The second seeded tandem of Gene Link and Dave Corwin of New Paltz downed the strong father and son combination of Ben and Nick Lawrence, also of New Paltz, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5. That match was bitterly fought with the Lawrence team twice holding match point advantages, but only to lose.

In other action, Al Wheeler and Chuck Letter, of New Paltz, tripped Bud Connolly and Joe Roberge, also of New Paltz. The scores were not made known in this match.

Semi-final pairings match Del Rosario and Sheehan against Kaye and Lacey in an all Kingston duel. Link and Corwin will, of course, face Wheeler and Letter in the other semi match.

Finals will be played Saturday, Sept. 15 at 1 p. m. instead of Sunday as previously announced. The change was made by the request of the contestants who have previous plans scheduled.

Wrestling Show Slated At Auditorium Tonight

Midget wrestling gets its unveiling here Monday (tonight) at the municipal auditorium when promoter Ted Bayly, of Troy, presents an all-star card.

The feature bout is a tag team match of Chief Little Beaver and the Brown Panther against Sky Low Low and Fussy Cupid. It will be a two-out-of-three fall tussle.

The first bout on the three-match program brings together a pair of heavyweight, Baron Gattini, of Italy and Bob Lepler, of Buffalo. Gattini will come into the ring at 285 pounds while Lepler will scale 270. The Italian stands 6'1" and his rival an inch less.

The show will be here after a weekend stand in Saratoga. The Spa program marked the debut of midget wrestling in New York state.

Furgol Wins Akron Golf

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 10 (AP)—Ed Furgol of St. Louis had the $3,000 first prize money from the Rubber City Open Golf tournament today to add to $6,000 top money he won in Milwaukee three weeks ago and $2,200 he collected Sept. 1 as runner-up in Detroit's Open.

In the windup of the $19,000 tournament at Firestone Country Club yesterday, the 39-year-old Furgol did just what he did at Milwaukee and Detroit—moved to the top on the final 18 holes. At Detroit he lost an extra-hole play-off after climbing from a five-way tie for third when the last round started. In Milwaukee he was two strokes off the pace going into the last 18.

Furgol began play yesterday two strokes back of Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., but while Palmer was carding 35 on the front nine, Furgol shot 32, then front posted 34s on the back nine holes.

Furgol's six-under par 66 gave him a 17-under-par 271, and Palmer's 69 lifted his total to 272 which earned him the $2,000 second prize.

Third was Ed Oliver of Canton, Mass. whose seven-under-par final round gave him 65 and $1,600.

John Ferrara Has Top Average In Summer Loop

John Ferrara, the old pro, posted the top average in the Ferrara Summer Classic bowling league—190.36—according to official figures.

Close on his heels was cousin Buster Ferrara who recorded a 190.26. Rounding out the top five are Hal Broskie (187.39), Larry Petersen (187.15) and Jackie Ferrara (186.14).

BUSTER'S 699 was the best series in the loop over Bill Shabot's 672. Broskie unloaded a 268 for high single honors.

Ferrara's Juniors won the pennant with 28 wins and 14 losses for a .667 percentage. Starlight Hotel was a trick behind with a 27-15 mark and .643 percentage.

The champs captured high three game (.3213) and single game (.1174) laurels.

Shirley Fry, Rosewall Capture Singles Crowns

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—It really made no difference that Ken Rosewall won the national tennis championship.

His victim Lew Hoad, just as well could have won it.

Either way, the title was headed back to Australia today for the first time since Frank Sedgman took it down under in 1952.

WHAT IT DID show, though, was that American tennis is seriously ailing. Three Australians got into the semi-finals and if it hadn't been for old-folks Vic Seixas, it would have been the first all-foreign semi-final in history.

Seixas was the fellow who was supposed to be all washed up at 33. Yet he advanced further than any other American. Except for Mike Green, the American youngsters showed very little.

And Green, besides promise, showed that he was at least a year away from the top.

That's what confronted the American tennis brass before and after Rosewall drilled out a 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 victory over Hoad in the final on the wind-swept turf of the West Side Tennis Club.

THEY WERE THE two top amateurs in the world and proved it. The match was a good one, and Rosewall proved the complete master after the first set.

Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., who won the women's title with a 6-3, 6-4 decision over Althea Gibson, said she was through with tennis for the year.

"My nerves won't take it," said Miss Fry, who also holds the Wimbledon championship.

Elks Capture Pennant

The Poughkeepsie Elks clinched the New York-New Jersey League baseball championship—Sunday with an 8-2 victory over the Brooklyn Windsors.

The Elks were aided by the Walden Dodgers Jewels who upset the second place Paterson Generals 4-3 Sunday. The Elks' win coupled with the Jerseyites' loss sealed the flag for the Bridge City contingent.

The Jewels enjoyed a profitable day beating also the Windsors 5-2, in the second half of a Walden twin bill. The decisions hoisted the Jewels' final season mark to seven won and nine lost.

The Sauterites Dutchmen, who were idle over the weekend, wind up play Sunday at Cantine Field against the Generals. The Dutchmen currently stand seventh in the nine team circuit with a 5-10 record.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON

Even today, many years after events of the fiction of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," bloodhounds are thought by many to be ferocious, bloodthirsty beasts.

Actually, bloodhounds (blooded hounds, from their carefully fostered breeding) are gentle dogs who enjoy their work of following the trail of human scent. As a matter of fact, it is logical to train bloodhounds on the scent of friends whom the dogs can greet with pleasure at the end of the trail.

How better could one train them to enjoy their work than to present the pleasure of meeting a friend when the task is completed?

THE ACCOMPLISHMENT of a good bloodhound requires extremely acute scenting powers, the ability to discriminate between slight differences in scent —even in the face of numerous other stronger scents—and the faculty of concentrating on that one all-important stimulus in spite of all others.

Bloodhounds are capable of following cold lines—lines which were established as much as two days previously. There have been instances of other breeds exhibiting exceptional trailing ability under unusual circumstances, but it is among bloodhounds alone that such a high percentage of ability exists.

AFTER ALL, MAN has bred these dogs for many generations through the centuries with stress placed upon this faculty above all others. It is for this reason that evidence established by the trailing of bloodhounds—and of bloodhounds only—is acceptable in practically all courts in our land.

When you see a big red or black and tan hound with loose skin, the folds of which give the dog a perpetual frown, long ears that would drag on the ground were he to nose a track closely and a size that would tip a scale beam at over 100 pounds, remember that it is a gentle creature of man's making through the centuries—a specialist in the art of analyzing particular scent particles and following them to their source.

THE SCOREBOARD

When was the last time two western division teams had a clear chance this late at the National League pennant?

All fans answering will receive two pats on the back for their fine reading taste.

THE BROOKLYN-MILWAUKEE two-game series at Ebbets Field, accepted by most as the settling point of the race, might wind up as a mere sideshow to the four games each Cincinnati and the Braves have to play at Connie Mack Stadium.

Both teams move into Philadelphia after playing Brooklyn. The Braves, losers of six out of seven in that spot so far, will jam the four games into a three-day period. The Reds, also able to win only one game there so far, will be forced to play two two-night double-headers.

Neither club figured to go in there with robust pitching. Curt Simmons can throw again and Robin Roberts, despite his rocky season, never can be counted on as a patsy.

Nobody ever accused Philadelphia of being garish. That would seem to make the town a proper spot to bury somebody's pennant hopes.

Red Schoendienst of the Giants decided a few days ago, that defense is the key to this race. So he fingered Brooklyn as the club to win. This left Fred Haney and Birdie Tebbetts wondering what you have to do to be noticed.

Tebbetts, at the time, had already been playing Alex Grammas as a regular at third in place of Ray Jablonski. Grammas swung the stick authoritatively against Milwaukee, but that was strictly a bonus. He's in there for his glove only. Jabbo and his bat have been forgotten.

And Haney has been lifting first baseman Joe Adcock as early as the sixth inning if the Braves have even a one-run lead. He puts in Frank Torre, who wishes there was no such thing as hitting. Figure men say Haney has deliberately tossed away more than 75 chances to get runs via Adcock's bat with this switch.

It also appears Gene Conley's frozen-handed play against the Dodgers last time out has put him in the bullpen permanently. The Braves are going to go all the way with Lew Burdette, Bob Buhl and Warren Spahn doing the starting and Taylor Phillips, the left-handed rookie, fitting into an emergency role.

Conley and Ray Crone are going to do the relieving. Ernie Johnson and Dave Jolly, who usually handle these chores, can go home.

At Brooklyn, Sal Maglie and Don Newcombe have taken care of the arm department. What the Bums want to know is who can donate a few pairs of legs.

Duke Snider's knee bothers him to the extent that he is a consistent late-breaker on a fly ball. He has to make easy chances on the full gallop. Pee Wee Reese looks like a youngster, but his legs act as if he had been jumping on pavement for the last month.

However, Jackie Robinson, in streaks, can break out of that pigeon-toed walk of his and start flying—he stole five bases in one series against the Giants.

Anything you say about Maglie isn't quite enough. The Barber is still implausible in a Brooklyn uniform. At 39, his less-than-two-runs-per-game over a 10-game span is even more weird.

Looking at him, you had to wonder whether championship tennis was being played at Ebbets Field or Forest Hills. All the opposition seemed to be doing was bouncing the ball around the ground when Maglie pitched. Of course, there is one major difference. Very few hit it over the net on The Barber.

Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N. "SIGHTING-IN" GUNS

"SIGHTING-IN" IS TEST FIRING OF A GUN TO SEE WHERE THE SHOT STRIKES. TARGET SO ITS SIGHTS MAY BE ADJUSTED. NEW GUNS MUST BE "SIGHTED-IN" BECAUSE FACTORY TESTER MAY NOT HOLD AND FIRE GUN EXACTLY LIKE YOU DO. SIGHTS MAY BE ACCIDENTALLY CHANGED BETWEEN SEASONS, OR SHOT WARPS FROM CLIMATIC CHANGES, SO YOU MUST "SIGHT-IN" BEFORE HUNTING.

FIRE 5 CAREFUL SHOTS FROM 25 YARDS TO MAKE SURE YOU'RE HITTING PAPER. THEN ADJUST THE SIGHTS TO CORRECT: MOVE REAR SIGHT IN DIRECTION DESIRED FOR GROUP; LEFT FOR LEFT (A) AND UP FOR UP (B), AS AN EXAMPLE. THEN FIRE 5 MORE. IF CORRECT, FIRE GROUPS AT DESIRED HUNTING DISTANCE FOR REFINEMENTS.

A teacher was investigating a little altercation. Teacher—And what did you do, John, when Thomas called you a liar? John—I remembered what you said, teacher, that "A soft answer turneth away wrath." Teacher—Why, excellent, and what soft answer did you make? John (grimly)—I hit him with a rotten tomato.

Farmer—No, no, I guess you better not. I gave you the other fellow's side.

Don't judge a man by the clothes he wears; God made one, the tailor made the other. Don't judge a man by his family relations; Cain belonged to a good family. Don't judge a man by his speech; for a parrot can talk, and the tongue is but an instrument of sound. Don't judge a man by his failures in life; for

A young man in the country had been courting a girl for several months, and was battling with the problem of how to ask her for her hand in marriage. Finally he consulted the hired man on his father's farm. Young Man—I haven't the slightest idea of the right way to ask Alice to marry me. Hired Man—Son, there ain't no wrong way.

The average price of a pound loaf of white bread was 70 per cent more in 1955 than 1946.

Bridge Accident Ends in Charge Of Drunk Driving

John Burke, 62, of Ellenville, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated late Sunday afternoon when he drove his 1941 sedan into the entrance of a one-lane bridge on Route 44-55 at Napanoch while another vehicle was crossing from the opposite direction.

Ellenville state police said John Riola, 30, of Ellenville, was almost across the plank bridge, located in the village of Napanoch about two miles west of Route 209, when Mr. Burke, traveling west on Route 44-55, failed to stop and entered the bridge.

Trooper T. H. Ganss reported that the two cars were wedged together on the bridge. The charge is returnable today before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Kerhonkson.

Reports Car Damaged

Benjamin A. Raleigh, 25, of 131 Clinton avenue, reported Saturday his car had been damaged in an accident on Titenbridge road when he failed to make a sharp right turn. The car crossed to the opposite side of the road, hit a pile of rocks and was damaged about the left front fender, grill and hood.

Brooklyn Man Held

James J. Smith Jr., 41, of 915 Road avenue, Brooklyn, was arrested by Deputy George Bockleman at Rosendale, on a disorderly conduct charge. He was brought to jail to await a hearing before Justice W. Doolittle.

Fish Die

stream may be polluted by acids or other substances which are injurious to fish which inhabit the stream. Since the pollution extended "beyond Napanoch" it is apparent that the damage was caused by substances introduced into the stream from some industrial plant of that area.

FISH DIE—4
The law provides a very substantial penalty for pollution of a stream and the injury or damage to fish which inhabit such waters.

Penalties Could Be High

Asked at the local office of the Conservation Department if a complaint had been filed, Inspector Goodman said none had. However he indicated that if sufficient evidence is found that pollution was caused by some firm along the creek, steps would be taken to collect penalties. He indicated severe penalties could be imposed and that in the present situation, since the damage to fish had been severe, the penalties imposed could be "very substantial."

Hundreds of bass, pickerel, bullheads and pan fish were observed floating on the surface of the creek Friday in the Accord area when conservation men were called in to investigate the condition. The inspection disclosed there had been a "very extensive kill" of fish.

Some Return

Camden, Ark. (AP)—A hot check artist fleeced merchants here of around $900 in cash and merchandise in a little more than one day. Camden got something out of the check-passer, though. Police said a 50-cent parking meter violation fine was collected on the automobile used by the check artist.

Three Bad Check Charges Placed Against Local Man

The case of James J. Ross, 20, of 237 Hasbrouck avenue, who was arrested Sept. 4 on a fraudulent check charge, was adjourned to Tuesday in City Court today and he was arrested at police headquarters on two more similar charges. He was held in $200 bail.

Ross was picked up September 4 on a fraudulent check charge on the complaint of Tom Reynolds, photographer, 599 Broadway. That case was put over to Tuesday in City Court today.

The defendant, meanwhile, was arrested this morning at police headquarters by Sgt. Lemuel Howard on two warrants, both fraudulent check charges. The warrants were executed on the complaints of Glenwood Clothes, 78 North Front street, and Kingston Specialty Co. Inc., 53 North Front street.

Car Hits Deer

Rudolph F. Legg, 31, of Saugerties, reported to Kingston state police late Sunday night that he was proceeding west on Route 212 in the town of Saugerties at about 50 MPH when a deer ran from the north side of the highway into the path of his 1953 sedan. The deer, which was killed, was struck by the left front fender.

Five Persons Injured In Weekend Accidents

Five persons were slightly injured in two vehicular accidents over the weekend in the city but none were admitted to hospitals, according to local police.

A report at 1:39 p. m. Sunday said a car operated by George N. Fleming, 46, of 198 West Chestnut street, was in collision with a vehicle operated by Nina B. O'Donovan, 61, of Talladega, Ala., owned by Coosa Builders, Inc., same address, at Washington and Hurley avenues.

A three-car collision at Pearl and Fair streets was reported at 4:25 p. m. Sunday.

Police said the Fleming vehicle, a 1956 sedan, was headed north on Washington avenue, and the other car, a 1949 sedan, was traveling in the same direction.

Mrs. O'Donovan told police the Fleming car came in on the right, passed and then pulled toward the curb and stopped suddenly with the left rear end sticking out into the lane of thru traffic, the report said. She struck the left rear of the Fleming car when the driver failed to signal, according to police.

Mrs. Fleming, no age given, Mrs. LeRoy Sleight, no age given, of RD 1, and Mr. Sleight, no age given, all passengers in the Fleming car, claimed neck injuries, police said, and were to consult a physician.

Mrs. O'Donovan received a bruise on the nose and was also to consult a physician, the report said.

The Fleming vehicle sustained damage to the left rear fender, left rear bumper and other possible hidden damages, the report said, while the other car was damaged on the right front fender, hood and other possible damages.

The three-car collision at Pearl and Fair streets involved a 1941 sedan, owned and operated by Kenneth J. Peck, 16, of 18 Mill street; a 1956 suburban, owned and operated by Richard T. Rorie, 35, of 126 First avenue, Albany, and a 1950 sedan owned by Mack Butler, 59, of 68 Smith avenue, Newburgh.

Mrs. Mary F. Johnson, 52, of 52 Second street, Albany, a passenger in the Rorie car, sustained injury to her right shoulder and was to be treated by a physician, the police report said.

Police said young Peck was turning from Fair street into Pearl street when the Rorie vehicle was double-parked on Pearl street, approximately 20 feet from the intersection of Fair street. The Butler car, police said, was parked at the curb on Pearl street about 20 feet from Fair street.

According to the report the Peck car struck the Rorie vehicle, forcing it into the Butler car.

Police said the Peck vehicle sustained damage to the right front fender, light and wheel, the Rorie car was damaged on the left front door, right fender, light and grill, while the Butler vehicle sustained damage to the left door, and left front fender.

Rafael Cueto, father of nine children, was presented with a prize as the millionth visitor recently to the International Fair in the Dominion Republic. He was awarded a single seat motorcycle.
